Occupied Middle Ground Between Preacher and Officer in "Y."

Percy N. Sholars, former membership secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, returned to Memphis Fridey from France. Percy still was as lefts, as handsome and as joily as in the old days before the war.

More than a year ago Percy Sholars left Memphis, and his job, to take up Y. M. C. A work with the bays over there. When he quit his service he was connected with the leave-area department of the "Y".

For the benefit of those who don't know what is meant by "leave-farea." let it be said that this was a branch of instruction and entertainment in which Uncle Sam and the "Y" combined efforts and shared expenses.

Units of saidlers were sent to certain given places, and there were instructed in the history of the spots in which they had been fighting. The government paid their transportation and their hotel bills.

"The Dauphin isoughboy," a soldier paper, had this to say when Percy left. I don't know what the bald-headed Y man's name is, but would like to for I think he has the proper 'pep' for a 'Y' man.

"Rather too gay for a preacher and too gentlemanly for an officer, he is now occupying the proper sphere, and when I leave Grenoble, which will be took sweet. I shall carry with me visions of his kindly face, and the kind things he has said and done in the enterest of the poor homesick doughboy. "(Signed) A BUCK PRIVATE." Sholars was statched to the 41st division, to which a great number of marine replacement troops were attached.

"All of the knocks for the 'Y' are to heard on this side of the water, clars said. "We never heard any of em across the pend."

COLD BATH LOSES OUT WITH BRITISH SOLDIERS

LONDON, July 4.—That British fetish, the cold bath, has lost its attractions for many soldiers who have returned from France. The occasional baths they got in rest billets during the war were hot and they som arquired the hot bath habit along with a distaste for cold water. One soldier who used to be a cold bath eathways says.

"My experiments with cold baths." FIREPROOF WAREHOUSE tions in providing a safe. clean, dry place to care for your household goods, pianos and

"My experiments with cold baths since returning from the front have made me wonder whether the cold bath habit is not really a pernicious fai, and to conclude that I survived it only because I was broken into it when very young and resilent.

"The first cold bath I had at home gave me the blues all day the next gave me a stiff neck in addition, and the third day I developed rheumatism." They say that the British are a class 3 nation physically. I wonder whether cold baths have anything to do with it." Wives and domestic servants are said to be opposed to the new hot bath table of the returned soldlers. Hot satts mean the consumption of more soal and require more work in preposal and require more work in the control of the control of the return of the control of the return of the control o

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED IN PADUCAH ROBBERY

PADUCAH, Ky, July 4, (Spt.)—More developments are expected daily in Columettion with the robbers at the Postfal Telegraph company's local office While the police rfused to give out any additional information it is known that a number of important clues have been discovered, and one or two more arrests are looked for.

The examining trial of Milard D. Grubbs, local mainager of the Postal Telegraph office here, and formerly an employe of the Western Union office at Louisville, will be held Monday, July 14. Walter Grooms, aged 16, whose body was found lying on the concrete floor at the bottom of the swimming pool of the Linden Natatorium late Thursday afternoon, and who died shortly after-ward despite efforts to resuscitate him, was laid to rest Friday afternoon. The fuseral services were conducted from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Grooms, 641 East Trigg avenue. It is believed that young Grooms, when he dived into the pool, struck the concrete bottom of the tank and was rendered unconscious by the blow and was drowned before his body was found 15 minutes later. The water at the point where the hody was recovered is 12 feet deep.

When the boy was not found and others had reported that he had dived, attendants at the natatorium began a hurried search of the building and fool. A pulmoter from J. T. Hinton & Son's company was applied, but without effect. A braiss over Grooms left evel indicated that he had struck the bottom of the pool in diving.

An application blank that Grooms had filled out for membership with the Y. M. C. A. was in the pocket of his blouse and showed that he could not swim.

The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of Hinton & Son and propared for burial. Grooms had served as a messenger boy for some time, but for the past fortnight had been employed at Moseley-Rohinson Drug company, South Main street. He had many friends among his playmates and older persons with whom he came in contact through his work.

Beddes his parents he leaves two brothers, Louis and Stanford Grooms.

BUSINESS IN BRAZIL SHOWS BIG INCREASE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 4. (Correspondence of the Associated Press). Business in Brazil, which had been atagnated since the first of October, 1918—a month before the signature of the armistice—has, since the first of April shown marked indications of an upward trend and a well manifested optimism has taken the place, among business men bere interested in trade with the United States, of the forebedings which many of them expressed one of two months ago.

A canxais of the leaung bankers and American commercial representatives in Rio Pe Janeiro recently has brought out the fact that the old order of transactions on a free and impanicky basis has begun Importers are placing orders for new stocks in limited quantities and a fair shire of them are going to American firms and factories.

Brazilian commerce, both domestic and foreign, has just weathered one of the most severe atorms in its history and the very few husiness inlitries which resulted was due to a number of calamities which followed one another in rapid succession. The freezing of about 60 per cent of the mature coffee trees was the first, followed closely by the appointment of a government food commission which was obliged to arbitrarily fix prices upon certain raw materials for industry—notably cotton. The textile industry was hard hit by this action and the loss of confidence among distributors of their product.

Early in October the influenza epidemic closed mills and paralyzed trade and this was followed by the signature of the armistice, with a general anticipation of a drop in prices in all staple commodities.

Shortly after the crose of hostilities came a deluge of deliveries on orders placed in the United States as much as a year before and the wholesale cancellations which resulted were due to the fact that the Brazilian merchant had to choose between cancellation or extension and bankruptcy. He chose the former in most cases. The large stocks which accumulated through this period of stagnation are now being worked off and buyers are again Rio DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 4 Correspondence of the Associates Press) - Business in Brazil, which has

MODERN MEDICINE IS WAR'S GREAT TRIUMPH

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 4.— one of the greatest victories of the car was the triumph of modern medi-tine in the control of acute infectious to properly care for themselves, was stated by James II. Pershing, who read a report on "Indigent Migratory con-sumptives."

citie in the control of acute infectious diseases, but even greater benefit will result from the fact that the war also opened the eyes of the government as well as the people of the great inroads that chronic diseases are making in our national economy. Dr. David R. Lyman said at the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis association which is in convention here. Dr. Lyman is president of the association.

As a result of the ravages of the 'white plague' among America's manhood, startlingly revealed by the draft board records. Dr. Lyman predicted the immediate creation of a division of tuberculosis in the United States public health service. This, he said, andoubtedly would be followed by the establishment at Washington of a department of health, having equal rank with the other great activities of the government, instead of the nation's health being considered of minor importance and cared for, as it is at present, as a side issue of the treasury department.

With the records showing that nearly of,000 men were rejected for the na-onal army because suffering from sus-ceted tuberculosis. Dr. Lyman urged ceater co-operation between public and givate health authorities if preventable seesse is not to hamper the country's Lord Kitchener and Sir William Robertson.

Since the armistice the prince of Wales has been very much in the public eye, and his activities are diversified. He made a speech in the ring at the National Sporting club after the Wild-Lynch contest, being introduced by Lord Lonsdale the chief figure of the British sporting world. He spoke also at the dinner of the Royal academy on the eve of the opening of the annual exhibition which was attended by a great gathering of notables.

He has been initiated into the Free Masons, following in the footsteps of his grandfather, King Edward, and his great uncle, the duke of Connaught, and has become as honory member of two of the old city trade guilds.

Recently the prince flew over London in an airplane piloted by one of the most daring army flyers and looped the loop and went through the most up to date program of stunts, which the more conservative visitors have begun to discourage since the end of hostilities. "I suffered dreadfully with a severe cough that had worn me out. I had lost flesh, my appetite was gone, and I had lost interest in living." says Mrz. Emma G. Davis, 1238 Marksman place. Government officials, as well as health authorities from every state in the Union are here to discuss plans for a new nation-wide campaign against preventable disease.

Tr. Charles J. Hatfield, managing director of the national association, pointed out that, although tuberculosis causes 150,000 deaths annually in this country, the burden of the fight gainst the disease was being borne by volunteer associations. Even their work, he said, is greatly handicapped by inadequiate laws.

That the spread of tuberculosis in this country is due largely to patients who travel from one place to another seeking a magical climate that will cure them and who have not sufficient means to properly care for themselves, was
